

Eighth Science for Judges Program

The eighth Science for Judges Program will be held at Brooklyn Law School on Friday, November 3 and Saturday, November 4, 2006. The program is offered by Brooklyn Law School's Center for Health, Science and Public Policy in conjunction with the Federal Judicial Center, the National Center for State Courts, and the Committee on Science, Technology and Law of the National Academies of Science. Federal and state court judges will be invited to attend. The program will focus on two topics: 1) Regulating Pharmaceuticals and 2) Updating Asbestos.

Friday's program will begin promptly at 2 p.m. and run until 6 p.m. There will be a dinner reception for all participants and their guests immediately following Friday's program. On Saturday, breakfast will be served at the law school beginning at 8:00 a.m. The conference will resume at 9:00 a.m. and will conclude with lunch on Saturday.

Program participants will be provided accommodations for Friday and Saturday nights at the Brooklyn Marriott Hotel (located across the street from the law school). The program will reimburse each participant for transportation costs not exceeding reasonable coach air fare (fare must include Saturday night stay) and ground transportation to and from the airport. In addition to the dinner reception on Friday, the law school will provide breakfast and lunch on Saturday.

Judges may apply for the program on line at <http://www.brooklaw.edu/scienceforjudges>. Applications must be received by July 17, 2006. We will let you know by August 1, 2006 whether your application has been accepted. Please address any questions about the program to Professor Margaret A. Berger, the program director. She can be reached at margaret.berger@brooklaw.edu.

If you wish to see papers presented at previous programs they can be accessed at <http://www.brooklaw.edu/centers/scienceforjudges/papers.php>.
